Project Summary	Actively revise Agency policies and procedures based on lessons learned and best practices, and develop training and education strategies to adequately support employees during tragedy.
Country	United States
Country/Region of Focus	United States

Project Description

In recent years, the Forest Service has experienced an increase in employee serious and fatal injuries. For many working on these incidents, it can be difficult to navigate through providing support and resources to families and survivors, identifying symptoms of compassion fatigue, death notifications, and much more. In order to establish an appropriate response, employees must first understand what is authorized by law, as well as approved agency procedures for providing a support structure for personnel, families, ancillary communities, and liaison assistance

VSFS eInterns will have a unique opportunity to revise Agency policies and procedures based on lessons learned and best practices, and develop training and education strategies to adequately support employees during tragedy.
